Clients, colleagues, and friends,

We at AEI are doing our part to support the health and safety of our staff, clients, partners, and the community during the current coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic. We continue to follow the most current recommendations for mitigating the spread of the virus to keep our communities safe.

In cooperation with Sacramento County and the State of California, our staff has transitioned to working remotely in order to “Shelter at Home” as directed. We will continue to serve our clients by being available by phone, email, or video conference to answer questions, coordinate designs, provide deliverables, and participate in any essential onsite construction review while following social distancing practices, in accordance with government guidelines. We intend to continue to work remotely and limit all but the most essential in-person meetings until it is deemed safe again by the Authorities. We are monitoring the situation closely and will update our response as appropriate in the coming weeks.

Everyone at AEI wishes our clients, colleagues, and friends good health during this challenging time. Please don't hesitate to reach out to us with any questions or to discuss any evolving needs you may have during this time.

Be safe and stay well,

Your friends at Arthur Engineering, Inc.
